

Mentor Coaching provides the opportunity to share your coaching skills with someone who can provide feedback regarding your use of the ICF Core Competencies and the code of Ethics.

Online Mentor Coaching Program 2017

Why Mentor Coaching?

As a young profession, and even in the corporate world, coaching can be new for clients and can get confused with mentoring & consulting. Therefore, coaches need to demonstrate their professionalism, and credentialing is one way. For coaches a second career requires practice, mentoring and feedback on an ongoing basis after initial coaching training. Some coaches take longer than others to apply for ICF credentialing due to the lack of professional support and the fear of getting judged.

ICF and most coaching schools require credential applicants to seek a mentor as professional assistance to achieve & demonstrate the competency level demanded by the desired credential level.

We believe coaching can make the difference in the world today in facing our challenges.

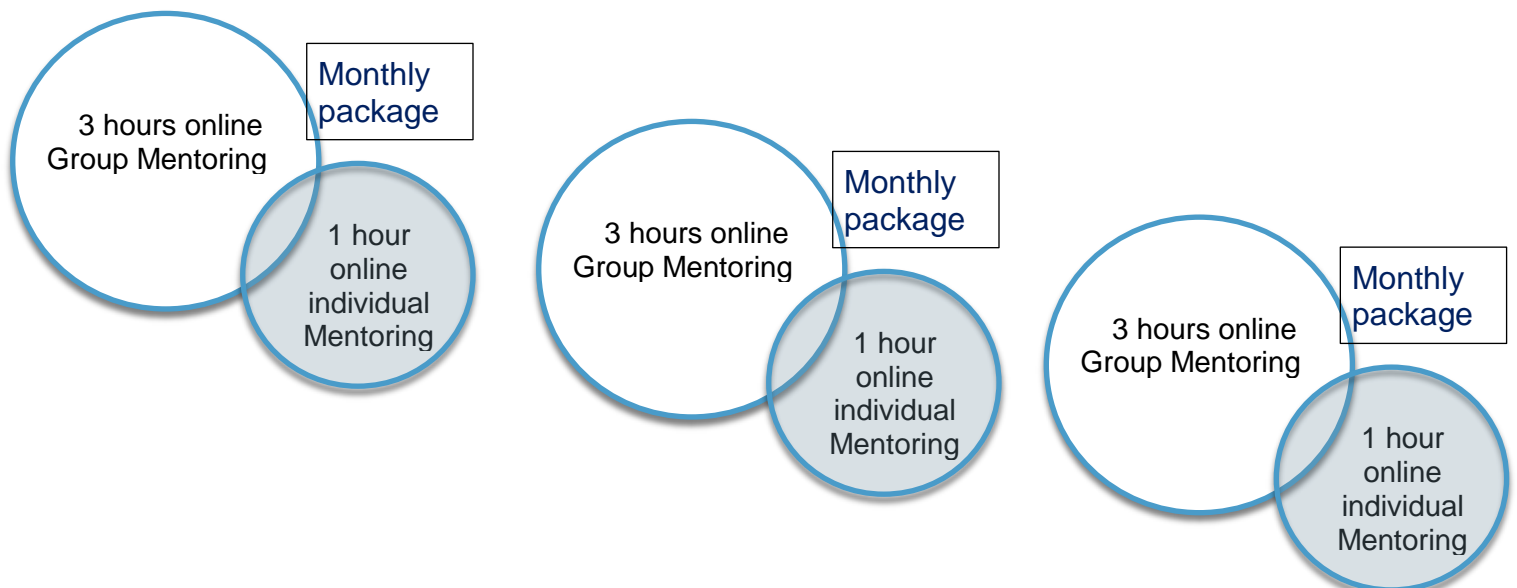

We also believe in the ICF's credentialing system and with over 22,000 credentialed coaches in the world today, we want to contribute strengthening the ever expanding coaching base through this mentoring program.

What is online Mentor Coaching?

ICF definition of mentor coaching: “a coach being coached on their coaching skills for the purpose of using professional assistance in achieving and demonstrating the levels of coaching competency demanded by the desired credential level. It takes place online, you get mentored wherever you are, and all you need is a Wi-Fi connection. We will send you a link to join our zoom conference room, no profile to create, all you do is click on the link. Orientation call is provided before you get started.

What Mentor Coaching is NOT?

The focus is not on “building one’s coaching company, life balance or other topics unrelated to the development of one’s coaching skill.” This cannot replace coach training, and this is not supervision.

Who is Mentor Coaching for?

10 hours of Mentor Coaching is a key requirement of the ICF Credentialing process and is vital to the development and growth of the individual seeking an ICF Credential. This program is rewarding you 4 CCE units for core competencies for each month you participate. (Pending ICF’s approval).

Since the focus of Mentor Coaching is to enhance one’s coaching skills, the following Mentee Coaches will engage a Mentor coach:

- You have terminated -or are about to- your initial coach training
- You have engaged a coaching practice with clients
- You are a junior or a more experienced coach
- You are seeking for mentoring hours for ACC or PCC credentialing, or ACC renewal
- You are committed to your continuous professional development, and to developing your coaching skills
- You need some CCE units for your PCC renewal, you can join in. Each completed monthly participation grants you 4 CCE units (3 for group mentoring, 1 for individual mentoring)
